1. COURSE OBJECTIVES

This compulsory course offers insights into the legal aspects of the EU's external action and relations. It focuses on the EU's external competences and objectives, legal personality, the actors, decision-making processes (including treaty-making), instruments and principles of external action and relations, the legal effects of international agreements and international law in the EU's internal legal order, as well as on the relationship between the EU and international organisations.

At the end of this course, the student will be able to

- understand the European and international legal framework governing the EU's external relations
- explain the competences, actors, procedures and instruments of EU external policy- and law-making
- conceptualise different aspects of the relationship between European and international law
- critically assess the role of values in the EU's external action
- analyse the case-law of the Court of Justice in the field of external relations

2. LEARNING OUTCOMES

The course objectives tie in with the following learning outcomes of the programme EU International Relations and Diplomacy Studies:

- 1.1 The graduate masters the most important approaches and concepts of International Relations, EU Studies and Diplomacy Studies relevant for the analysis of the role of the European Union in international affairs.
- 1.2 The graduate can describe, explain and illustrate the current state of scientific research in the field of EU external relations in a broad sense and is able to critically assess the results of this research.
- 1.3 The graduate has good knowledge of the institutional architecture and the decision-making processes in EU external relations.

- 1.4 The graduate has insights into the political, legal and economic aspects of EU diplomacy and can use these insights to contextualise and interpret new developments.
- 1.5 The graduate has the ability to critically reflect upon problems in international and European affairs, to adopt well-informed points of view and to communicate them effectively orally and in writing, whether working independently or in a team.
- 1.6 The graduate has the intellectual maturity and skills to function responsibly and autonomously in a professional context at national, European or international level and to work efficiently and effectively through planning, organising, setting priorities and meeting deadlines.
- 1.7 The graduate has the intellectual maturity and skills to function responsibly and autonomously in a professional context at national, European or international level and the capacity of suggesting possible action that contributes to problem-solving in a creative way.

The course objectives tie in with the following learning outcomes of the programme Transatlantic Affairs:

- 2.1 The graduate masters the most important theoretical approaches and concepts of, depending on his or her disciplinary focus, Economics, International Relations and Diplomacy Studies, Legal Studies and/or Political Science relevant for the analysis of transatlantic affairs.
- 2.2 The graduate can describe, explain and illustrate the current state of scientific research in the field of transatlantic affairs in a broad sense and, is, in line with his or her disciplinary focus, able to critically assess the results of this research.
- 2.3 The graduate has good knowledge of, depending on his or her disciplinary focus, the political and/or legal systems, the decision-making processes, the economic structures and the main internal and external policies of the European Union and the United States.
- 2.4 The graduate has insights into historical, political, legal and economic aspects of transatlantic affairs as well as into those policy areas that are of essential importance to transatlantic affairs. He or she can use these insights to contextualize and interpret new developments.
- 2.5 The graduate is able to incorporate knowledge and understanding of various fields of transatlantic affairs and of different related disciplines (such as Economics, International Relations, Legal Studies, Political Science) as well as to adopt both a European and a US perspective on transatlantic affairs.
- 2.6 The graduate has the ability to critically reflect upon problems regarding an extensive range of transatlantic affairs, to adopt well-informed points of view and to communicate them effectively orally and in writing, whether working independently or in a team.
- 2.7 The graduate is capable of processing a large amount of information and appropriately analyse relevant sources depending on his or her disciplinary focus within a short period of time and of suggesting possible actions that contribute to problem-solving in a creative way.
- 2.8 The graduate has the intellectual maturity and skills to take responsibilities and function autonomously in a professional environment at national or international level, and especially in a transatlantic context, and to work efficiently and effectively through planning, organizing, setting priorities, meeting deadlines, cooperating across cultural boundaries and networking.
