

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

The EU, China and SDGs: a likely alliance?

Brussels, 7 May 2018

European Economic and Social Committee, JDE 62
Rue Belliard 99, 1040 Brussels

The EU and China are major global economies and key actors in international trade and investment flows. Both China and the EU are also committed to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and sustainability has entered the mainstream of government policymaking, including on trade and investment. As a result sustainability and the SDGs are not just a policy issue, but are increasingly a practical business question for companies operating between the EU and China.

The conference will include panels on the impact of SDGs on trade and investment, energy and climate. Speakers will focus on the EU and China and the prospects of a partnership, especially the role of business, in meeting sustainability goals embodied in the SDGs.
