COURSE OBJECTIVE

To practice the art of diplomacy in a historical European context.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

1. Students will be able to grasp the outlines of the historical relations among the European powers between the mid-seventeenth and early nineteenth centuries.
2. Students will be able to gain empathy with those who took key decisions on relations between states in the past through engagement with the diplomatic cultures of the Ancien Régime and revolutionary period, via preparatory reading and a simulation game.
3. Students will practice the mastery of briefs and scenarios, and the skills of negotiation and public speaking.

RECOMMENDED PREPARATION

All essential and some further readings (in course outline).

TEACHING METHOD(S)

Two two-hour illustrated lectures and discussions, followed by simulation game with general and secret scenarios and objectives (four hours, in two two-hour sessions).
