Welcome

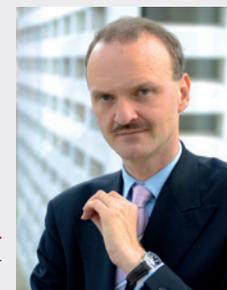

The College of Europe Development Office was established in Bruges in 1996. It manages the College of Europe's professional services, projects and partnerships and can count on the international network and expertise of the College gained through more than sixty years of experience in EU affairs teaching. With this brochure I would like to present to you our professional training activities.

In 2016 the Development Office is proposing 10 Executive Education courses which are open for registration to all, such as the 23rd edition of the 'Intensive Seminar on the EU' and courses on EU Competition Law, EU Transport & Railway Affairs, Trade Policy, or skills-related courses such as EU Diplomacy and Diplomatic Skills, Negotiations in Practice and EU Project Management. Thanks to the possibilities opened up by the application of new education technologies, the College will also develop and expand its e-Learning modules.

I hope that you too will be able to benefit from the College of Europe experience, and we will be glad to welcome you to our community.

Rector
Jörg Monar

EXECUTIVE
EDUCATION

Intensive Seminar on the EU – Classic three-week programme

Experiencing the College of Europe Summer School

The 'Classic' three-week formula is an engaging training course on the EU and its main policies. The course will begin in its first week with a set of interactive seminars focusing on European integration and the decision-making process, as well as the EU legal order, internal market and economics. The following week is dedicated to a large selection of EU policies and key EU skills sessions, proposing a set of parallel workshops allowing participants to choose the policies of their interest. The third week will focus on EU external policies. A one-day study visit to the EU institutions, a one-day simulation exercise and a series of evening discussions such as a panel debate and a speech on "hot" EU topics round off the curriculum.

The programme is suitable for beginners and professionals with no prior knowledge of the EU. Trainers are carefully selected from the College of Europe network of renowned academics and highly experienced EU professionals.

Intensive Seminar on the EU – Advanced two-week programme

Exploring and practising the EU through its main policies

Competition, trade, economy, regions, energy, or the EU's foreign policy: the latest developments and future challenges of selected EU policies are screened during the 'Advanced' two-week formula of the Intensive Seminar on the EU. Choosing among the different EU policies and key EU skills sessions offered in parallel, participants tailor the course to their own professional needs and expectations. Participants will practise the EU policies and skills of their choice by taking part in workshops organised in small groups.

A one-day simulation exercise and a series of evening discussions such as a panel debate and a speech on current EU topics complete the curriculum. Participants should have prior (university or professional) knowledge of the EU to be able to follow these two policy-oriented weeks. Trainers are selected for their professional insight primarily at EU level and their proven experience in adult training.

Intensive Seminar on the EU – Compact one-week programme

The EU's latest developments you need to know

Designed for professionals in EU affairs, the 'Compact' one-week course offers an in-depth and up-to-date analysis of EU horizontal issues, current policy challenges and key EU skills. The format of the course favours practical workshops and case studies under the guidance of highly qualified experts, thus allowing as much professional practice as possible. It is structured in a modular formula allowing the participants to shape their own programme by choosing courses in accordance with their background, interests and professional needs.

High-level experts are invited to act as trainers and share their professional expertise during this challenging and intensive week. Networking opportunities are strongly encouraged during the course which offers an evening panel discussion, a key-note speech and a variety of social events.

EU Transport & Railway Affairs (ETCR)

A professional exchange on European transport policy and railway sector management

This annual two-week course, organised since 1963, is the result of a collaboration between the College of Europe, the European Training Centre for Railways (ETCR) and the European Railway Agency (ERA). It presents the latest developments within the railway sector at European level. The course looks at European transport legislation and focuses on important rail transport issues, offering a better picture of other modes of transport, such as transport by road, air and waterways. The theoretical knowledge acquired is complemented by practical assignments and study visits.

Through this course, participants get the unique opportunity to learn in an international environment and to set up a network among colleagues from all European and non-European countries. Moreover, they get the chance to confront the challenges with which they are dealing at home with the solutions that have been applied in other European countries.

The programme is especially targeted to people with a solid experience in the transport and railway sector.

EU Competition Law

A professional guide to EU Competition Law

This advanced course provides participants with a professional guide to EU competition law and the essential tools to master legal complexities and successfully face the challenges in everyday work. The programme systematically covers the constituent provisions of EU competition law and the merger regulation. Subsequent sessions focus on specific businesses to evaluate the impact of EU competition law. The final sessions deal with the particular problems of EU competition law procedure and enforcement.

The course offers a variety of perspectives into the main different areas of EU competition law through interaction with prominent experts in the field. It promotes rigorous legal and economic analysis of competition policy reforms in the EU and on a global scale, as well as providing a forum for discussion among and between both experts and nonspecialists interested in the subject.

The course includes also a session on communication skills when advising and counseling.

EU Diplomacy & Diplomatic Skills

How to communicate, negotiate and report

The purpose of this three-day course is to enhance participants' knowledge about the diplomacy of the European Union and diplomatic skills. The programme will offer first a general introduction to the diplomacy of the EU and its recent developments; it will then include practical training sessions on diplomatic skills, which will allow participants to practise the skills required to communicate, report and negotiate across cultures and levels. The course will also offer a practical session with an expert on diplomatic protocol.

This three-day training programme:

- introduces the EU diplomacy and its role in multilateral fora;
- gives the opportunity to understand relevant diplomatic skills;
- provides a faculty of excellence consisting of academics and practitioners;
- offers an opportunity for participants to network and exchange experiences.

Trade Policy

Understanding the essentials of EU Trade Law and WTO

This three-day course is designed to offer a thorough and detailed introduction to trade law and the WTO. It provides the participants with a comprehensive analysis of the significance of the International Trading System, including the WTO and its interaction with EU trade policies. The programme is very interactive and includes a variety of workshops and case studies.

The Trade Policy course is intended for officials from EU institutions and agencies, and national administrations. The course is open to both lawyers and non-lawyers, as well as professionals from EU and non-EU countries, working in fields related to trade and WTO law. A faculty of excellence consisting of practitioners with a sound working experience in and/or with the EU institutions, and the World Trade Organisation guides participants through the curriculum.

Negotiations in Practice

Towards effective negotiations with and within the European Union

The purpose of this five-day advanced training course is to enhance participants' negotiation and communication skills that can be applied in their interaction with and within the EU institutions. The programme includes interactive training sessions examining theoretical and practical aspects of negotiations and the specificities of the EU decision-making process, workshops on communication techniques and strategies, as well as a simulation exercise of the functioning of the Council of the EU.

The course is primarily targeted at civil servants of national administrations and EU institutions and agencies, and it also attracts professionals from companies, civil society, universities and institutes from both EU and non-EU countries.

The sessions are led by high-level speakers from the College of Europe's network of renowned academics and practitioners with a sound working experience in and/or with the EU institutions.

EU Project Management

The management of projects from A to Z

The College of Europe offers a five-day interactive journey through the lifespan of European projects, from EU funding opportunities to tender writing, project implementation and evaluation. Through detailed case studies and project simulations, this course aims at providing participants with a comprehensive knowledge of essential techniques for successful, cost-effective management of EU projects.

The training programme is designed to assist professionals in grasping the complexities of EU funding schemes, covering all phases of an EU project, from identification, proposal writing and implementation, to evaluation. High-level experienced professionals lead participants wishing to reinforce and extend their knowledge of best practices in project management. The programme also offers the opportunity to handle the Project Cycle Management (PCM) and Logical Framework (LFA) tools, in order to better understand the life cycle of a project and its different challenges.

EU Fact Finding

The EU at your fingertips!

EU Fact Finding is an intensive half-day workshop in which participants learn to find their way through the 'jungle' of EU-related websites. An experienced trainer will guide them using an interactive presentation made available to all participants during and after the workshop. After this hands-on crash course, the participants will be able to quickly and effectively search for relevant information on EU legislation, policies and institutions.

The programme is particularly recommended for officials, lobbyists, consultants, translators, information and communication managers and other professionals with or without prior EU experience wishing to become more efficient in acquiring information on the EU.

Competition Law – Antitrust

This e-Learning module provides a clear insight into the essentials of Competition law, particularly antitrust rules. The programme covers the basic concepts of EU competition policy, such as market power, dominance, market definition or types of rules and remedies. It then focuses on the two prohibitions set out by Articles 101 and 102 of the Treaty.

WTO Law

This e-Learning module gives an overview of the international trading system, the benefits that trade provides and the origins of the current system. It also examines the basic rules that govern world trade, such as most-favoured nation, national treatment, transparency, and focus on the body administering these rules: the World Trade Organization.

The role of the EU Delegations

This e-Learning module starts with the creation and development of European Commission Delegations and then focuses on their transformation into EU Delegations with the implementation of the Treaty of Lisbon. The (partly new) tasks of EU Delegations, ranging from development and trade issues to political reporting, representation of the Union and local coordination of the Member States, are explained and compared to those of national embassies.

Migration and visa facilitation

The e-module introduces the migration and asylum policies, competences and instruments of the EU in both their internal and external dimensions. It also focuses on the role and tools of migration & asylum policies in the relations between the Union and its neighbouring countries, with the development of a common border management from Schengen to Frontex, the introduction of visa facilitation and readmission agreement, and mobility partnerships.

Legal aspects of EU external relations

This e-Learning module provides an insight into the legal aspects of the EU's external actions and relations. It focuses on the EU's external competences and objectives, legal personality, the actors, decision-making processes (including treaty-making), instruments and principles of external actions and relations, as well as the legal effects of international agreements and international law in the EU's internal legal order.

The EU in multilateral fora

This e-Learning module analyses the complex relationship between the EU and the major international organisations, conferences and informal groupings. While the EU is strongly committed to effective multilateralism as a defining principle of its external policy, its representation in multilateral fora, its legal status and the actors that negotiate or speak on its behalf vary considerably. The course covers the institutional, political and legal aspects of this fragmented pattern and their implications for the EU's role in global governance.

Development aid and cooperation

This e-module introduces participants to the role of the EU in international development cooperation, as the largest donor of development aid. It looks into how European development cooperation has evolved into an area of shared competence between the Union and member states, and into the novelties of the post-Lisbon context. New actors have come to play a role, and the EU is increasingly trying to ensure policy coherence with other policy areas, such as the common commercial policy or foreign and security policy.
