Corbyn hits back at Tusk, saying Brexit Britain will never be a 'second-rate player'

PUBLISHED: 12:10 14 November 2019 | UPDATED: 12:45 14 November 2019

Jeremy Corbyn has responded to Donald Tusk's comments about Brexit.

Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn has responded to Donald Tusk's comments that the UK would be a "second-rate player" after Brexit.
Corbyn hits back at Tusk, saying Brexit Britain will never be a 'second-rate player' | Latest Brexit news and top stories | The New E

The Press Association reports that in an interview, Corbyn said: "No I don’t think we are ever going to be a second-rate player."

Tusk earlier made the comments as part of a plea to the UK not to give up campaigning to stop Brexit.

The outgoing European Council president said that Brexit spells "the real end of the British Empire" and added: "Only as part of a united Europe can the UK play a global role. Only together can we confront, without any complexes, the greatest powers of this world."

WATCH: Donald Tusk tells campaigners 'don’t give up' on reversing Brexit

But Corbyn has taken issue with Tusk's assessment, saying: "This is a big country, an important country and trading partner and I look forward to leading a government that will be working with others around the world.

"He makes many statements at many times and he is the president of the EU, and yes he can make those statements, and I look forward to discussing them with him."

Responding to Tusk's comments, Liberal Democrat foreign affairs spokesperson Chuka Umunna earlier reacted quite differently.

Umunna said: "There is still light at the end of the tunnel for all those who want to end the chaos of Brexit.

"We can reject a Tory or a Labour-backed Brexit that would damage opportunities for our children and grandchildren. This election is a historic chance for voters to make their voice heard and secure a brighter future in Europe."

You may also want to watch:
Jeremy Corbyn will not remove whip from Labour MPs

Jeremy Corbyn has refused to threaten Labour MPs that back Boris Johnson over Brexit.

Tusk hits out at the politicians that caused Brexit

Jeremy Corbyn calls for Theresa May to take no-deal Brexit off the table.

Jeremy Corbyn’s car stopped by anti-Brexit campaigners.

Become a Supporter

The New European is proud of its journalism and we hope you are proud of it too. We believe our voice is important - both in representing the pro-EU perspective and also to help rebalance the right wing extremes of much of the UK national press. If you value what we are doing, help us by making a contribution to the cost of our journalism.

Become a supporter